

Frederic Wandres Earns Career High Score

Frederic Wandres (GER), rode Hot Hit OLD to a career high score in the CDI3* FEI Grand Prix, presented by Barnwalkers during opening week of the Adequan® Global Dressage Festival. All five judges placed the pair first, awarding 75.348% overall, improving on their previous best by over 1%.

"To start the season here in Wellington with a personal best is super and we are looking forward to what's coming next," added Wandres, who also scooped a personal best in week one's "Friday Night Stars" at last year's show on another of his Grand Prix horses, Bluetooth OLD.

Wandres has ridden Hot Hit at Hof Kasselmann, where he works, since the grey gelding by Blue Hors Hotline x Diamond Hit was six. The now 12-year-old already has an impressive resume, and this victory took his unbeaten streak to five.

"We are very happy about him — he is our unicorn," grinned Wandres. "It's always good to have a white one in the stable. He's in our hearts and I feel he gives his best in the arena."

Lyle and Salvino Stamp Their Authority on Friday Night Stars

The first "Friday Night Stars" evening of musical freestyle action during the 2023 Adequan® Global Dressage Festival in lived up to its stellar billing with the FEI World Cup™ Grand Prix Freestyle, presented by Lövsta Stuteri. The evening included top-class dressage, personal bests on the podium and a winning score of over 83%.

Adrienne Lyle (USA) and the 16-year-old stallion Salvino made it two for two in the Lloyd Landkamer Memorial week when they scooped the blue ribbon with 83.54% for a harmonious test brimming with expression and power. Lyle and Betsy Juliano's Sandro Hit x Donnerhall son topped the previous day's qualifying Grand Prix with 77.5%. In the freestyle, second placed Sarah Tubman (USA) kicked off her Wellington season with a personal best of 78.25% on another stallion, the 13-year-old First Apple, while third placed Caroline Darcourt (SWE) and Lord Django contested their first Grand Prix freestyle and pulled out a 78.17% performance.

Lyle is chasing down one of three starting places allocated to North America for the FEI World Cup™ Final in Omaha, NE, in April. Her top score of 86% came courtesy of the Dutch five-star judge at H, Mariette Sanders- van Gansewinkel.

Of her performance, Lyle said, "I'm super thrilled to be here again at this amazing venue and I was happy to see how packed it was despite this cold weather. Salvino felt great — he was fiery and very excited to be here.

"We did most of the things on my terms, and some of the things on his terms — but like any good relationship it's all about compromise, and he feels great," added Lyle of Salvino, whom she rode on the silver medal USA team at the Tokyo Olympics.

"We were fortunate to have the World Cup qualifier in December under our belt [which they won with 85.015%], so this was the second of three that we have to try and do," added Lyle, who is 38. "He doesn't do a whole lot in between shows; he knows his job now so we just keep him happy and healthy and fit."

Owner and class sponsor Antonia Ax:son Johnson added, "We have been coming here

Wellington Welcomes USPRE

In the heart and spirit of the Adequan® Global Dressage Festival, USPRE Week is here and will continue the promotion of the Spanish horse breed in the United States.

USPRE members and PRE lovers have ascended on the equestrian "Disneyland" of Wellington, the epicenter of international competition in the world. The PRE horse returns as the sole protagonist this year, but will be accompanied by distinguished Spanish personalities such as Juan Manuel Muñoz and Francisco Fernandez Muñoz, and elite riders such as Yvonne Losos de Muñiz.

Join us on Saturday for a round table discussion entitled, "The New Horizon of the PRE in the Sport" with guest speakers: Juan Manuel Muñoz, Janet Foy, Yvonne Losos de Muñiz, and more. The program will take place in the hospitality tent at Equestrian Village on the AGDF showgrounds.

For more information, visit www.usprea.com.

for around 13 years and there is no place like Wellington. These shows give us the energy and enthusiasm to believe in dressage. This really is a place that attracts the best riders. There's nothing more magic than watching dressage."

Judge at C William Warren had some trepidation about the weather conditions before the class started, saying, "Before we started the evening I wondered how this would turn out because suddenly it didn't feel like we are in Florida," he explained. "The temperature plummeted, and horses can be horses so I didn't know how things would go for the riders tonight, but they all pulled it off beautifully."

Baden Spa & Wellness Brings Sun Damage Correction and Much More to The Equestrian Community

Baden Spa owner, Nora Kornheisel explains, "We understand that horses are the light of every rider's life. We also see the toll that the sun's damaging rays have on equestrians as they spend so much time outdoors with their beloved horses.

"We have also discovered that our passionate equestrian clients typically take better care of their horse's skin rather than their own," she added with a knowing smile.

Baden Spa is the solution. Baden Spa offers holistic sun damage correction with treatments sourced from nature. In addition to their botanically sourced product line, Baden Spa utilizes the most advanced equipment available for effective non-surgical solutions with no downtime. They offer a full range of services, including a customized equestrian facial, which often combines more than one treatment to create the most effective and unique solution for each rider's skin.

Baden Spa offers many advanced techniques including Venus Viva, an RF Micro-needling procedure, as well as OXY and PROCELL therapy with GF, a Dermatude Meta Therapy treatment which is highly recommended for sun damage correction, as well for fine lines and wrinkles. They also offer Co2 Carbyboxi and Pepti Growth Factors Therapy, Dermaplaning, Plasma Fibroblast, and Hydrotherapy Dermabrasion and Infusion. Again, for the sun damaged skin found so often among their equestrian clients, the Baden Spa team will mix and match therapies for the most effective results. And the very best news: these extremely effective treatments are non-surgical and involve no injections, and there is no down time...so you never need to miss a day of riding to look your radiant best.

Beyond the face, Baden Spa and Wellness indulges the whole body, offering relaxing Raki Tibetan Sound Therapy, Massage Therapy, Venus Legacy Body Contouring, and much more. And just like the facial treatments, these full body procedures are non-invasive and incorporate the same high quality natural botanical products to enhance your experience.

As soon as you walk into Baden Spa, you are transported into a calming environment that is a treat to the senses.

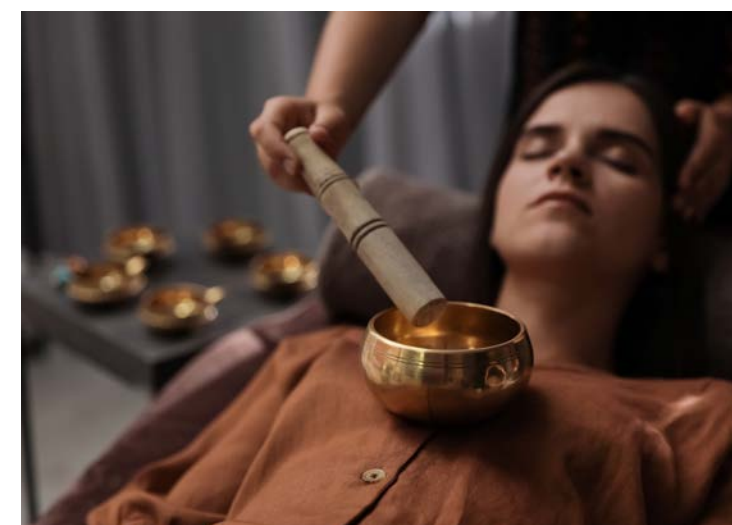

"Our clients are always truly amazed by the results. The most fulfilling part about our job is seeing our clients glow and shine in the mirror after their first treatment," says Kornheisel.

Baden Spa offers flexible and hassle-free scheduling through their website to work around equestrians' busy lifestyle.

Additionally, Baden Spa hosts one-of-a-kind onsite events for barn or property owners. "We call these events "Barn Spa Parties." Our team will come to your stable, barn, farm, and set up on-site facials, as well as refreshments," says Kornheisel. "So, all you must do is relax and enjoy yourself with friends. There is no cost to host a Barn Spa Party and it is a treat you deserve."

At this season's CDI shows, Baden Spa is proud to sponsor the "Baden Spa Best Award," presented to a winning horse and rider who truly show their best at AGDF. When you're ready to put forward your very best skin, visit Baden Spa online at badenspa.com or call 561-584-8575. It's your time to shine at Baden Spa.

RIDER SPOTLIGHT: ADAM STEFFENS

Adam Steffens has been riding since he was about nine years old and immediately fell in love with Dressage. After continuing his education and letting his passion for horses grow deeper, he joined forces with Wendy Petrik at Candoit Stables to focus on bringing along young horses and train clients. This season Adam is fully loaded with four top young horses owned by Candoit Stables that are ready to take the stage at AGDF this season. Continue reading to learn more about Adam, the horses he's currently riding, and his goals for 2023!

Tell me about your riding journey and when you began Dressage.

Well, I've had horses since I was born because my mother was an avid trail rider, and I started doing Dressage when I was about nine or ten years old.

Tell us about your partnership with Candoit Stables!

My partnership with Candoit began by hosting clinics once a week there, and I would drive up from Wellington. But in October 2021, we decided to merge forces. Now, Candoit Stables is a boarding facility with 24 stalls, and Wendy Petrik, the owner, manages the staff, boarding, and clients. I provide lessons and training coinciding with Wendy's business. Candoit Stables has also purchased four world-class horses within the past year, and we hope they make the team in the future.

Is there anyone in particular who has mentored you and helped you get to where you are today?

Currently, I am working with Christine Traurig, with whom I have had a very long relationship over the past ten years. I have also worked with Debbie MacDonald quite a bit, so they are both my biggest mentors and inspirations.

What are your goals for the 2023 season?

I aim to compete with Candoit's Boston Strong OLD in the Small Tour CDIs and see where that takes us. Recently

I competed Candoit's Secret Weapon in the 4-year-olds at the Festival of Champions, so this year we are hoping to bump her up to the 5-year-old classes. Candoit Stables recently purchased two incredible six-year-olds, Candoit's Donkey Kong and Candoit's Fabuleux Coeur, that I plan on competing in the 6-year-olds. I also have multiple students showing, and we are hoping for success.

If you could relive any moment, what would it be and why?

If I could go back to any moment in time, it would probably be my first season in Wellington. It was when I met my core group of friends; it was just the best group of people!

HELGSTRAND OPEN HOUSE

WATERFRONT EQUESTRIAN ESTATE WITH ENDLESS POTENTIAL

$6,300,000 | 11 Bedrooms (10 properties)
150 Acres | Cecil County, North East, Maryland 21901

This unique 80-acre waterfront estate with expansive views of the Elk River is located in the luxurious horse country of North East, Cecil County, Maryland. An extremely rare Chesapeake Bay waterfront legacy family compound, offering four meticulously renovated homes, as well as barns, horse pastures, tillable farmland, a 14-acre vineyard, stables, private shoreline, sandy beach and a 300-foot private dock. The property is currently operated as an income producing premier winery/wedding venue. It can easily be transformed into a private family equestrian estate, training facility, competition venue or continue to be an income producing property in whole or in part. An additional land parcel of 70 acres is available for $1M allowing for a net option to secure 150 continuous acres.

Each of the estate's homes reflect special details, functional living spaces with modern finishes, and abundant water views and 80-foot elevations. An elegant, well-appointed 1930s Georgian Manor House sits majestically on a landscape overlooking manicured rolling lawn and pastoral farmland with plenty of room for additional barns, arenas and fenced pastures. Additional structures on site include a Nantucket-style beach house and two traditional farmhouses, as well as a country chic, renovated barn and tasting room, stables, and functional office space. Screened porches, balconies, patios, and verandas bring the outside in, creating unique private outdoor gathering spaces throughout the grounds. The majestic landscape and water-access options provide access to Chesapeake Bay living at its best.
